COMMERCE BUREAU PLANS ROOF GARDEN

Arrangements To Be Made This Week By Committee Composed of Employes.

Plans for the establishment of a roof garden for employes of the Departmen of Commerce will be made this week by Dr. George C. Havenner, chief clerk of the department, co-operating with committee representing the various bureaus.

Eventually it is planned to organize club for department employes, similar to the Home Club of the Interior De partment, but the roof garden will first be put in force.

The roof garden plans contemplat the construction of a flooring in sec tions, so that it may be taken up in winter and stored. This will be suitable for dances. The roof will be electrically lighted and beautified with flowers and plants. An awning will be constructed over the northwest corner, where the officials and clerks may eat their noon lunches. There will be facilities for entertainments of variou kinds, including motion pictures. One elevator will be run at night to accom modate roof garden crowds.

The Commerce building, at Nine teenth and Pennsylvania avenue north west, is eleven stories high, and commands an unobstructed view of the Capital and its environs. When the building was constructed the officials had the roof garden feature in mind, and a strong, high railing was con structed around the roof.

Russell M MacLennan has been active in making arrangements for the club and roof garden. Mr. MacLennan and Daniel E. Casey, members of a committee of clerks, have volunteered, together with three others to be selected, to aid the department carpenters in doing the work, so that the garden may doing the work, so that the garden may be installed without expense to the department.

OFFICIALS CONDEMN NOTE BUT TRUST TO WILSON

NEW YORK, June 1.-The New York Times today prints the following expres-sions of opinion regarding the German reply to America's protest on the Lusi-tania incident, from officials high in, State and National Government:

Absolutely Unsatisfactory.

In my opinion the note is absolutely unsatisfactory and is no answer to the questions involved. But our people should maintain calmness and await the President's action with patience. Our interests and our honor are safe in his hands. RICHARD I. MANNING, Governor of South Carolina.

Should Stop Short of War.

Our country can settle no question of human liberty, nor will we gain any desirable end by participating in the European war. We should not seek an opportunity to sacrifice American life and treasure, which under a most favorable ending would mean a net loss to our country, with no useful service rendered to man-

Ourpeople should support our President in his efforts to maintain peace.
EMANUEL L. PHILIPP,
Governor of Wisconsin.

Honorable Peace If Possible. If we are driven to war, let it be on issues defensible for all time to

This is not a time for idle, ill-con-sidered mouthings. It would be de-plorable, indeed, if the murderous hysteria which seems to have seized the people of Europe should become fastened upon our own people. outlet for patriotism is desired, let us put the full force of public opinion behind those officials of our National Government whom we law instructed with the duty of handling just such situations as we are now confronted with. These officials will be guided by what appears to be the deliberate judgment of the people of the nation, and it is my hope that the sentiment, as finally crystallized, will be that we will have war if honor-able peace is impossible, but that until the last effort made to maintain honorable peace proves in vain, noth-ing shall be done and no word uttered that is likely to precipitate

GEORGE A. CARLSON, Governor of Colorado.

Should Protect Americans. Germany's note is disappointing. It does not define the attitude of the German government on the main question, to wit, th epurpose of the government in the conduct of submarine warfare.

The President will act with The President will act with the courage and wisdom vouchsafed to him who is steadfast in the resolve to do right. He has a clear view of the whole situation, and the one unmistakable duty of every citizen is to sustain him in this crisis.

LOCKE CRAIG,
Governor of North Carolina.

Sparring For Time. Marcus H. Holcomb, governor of Connecticut, said that he considered the German note "a little evasive." In his opinion, the German govern-ment is "sparring for time." Evasive, Insincere, Unsound, To my mind, the German note of

The apparent insincerity which is behind it is evident by the torpedoing of the Nebraskan, occurring even before the dispatch of Berlin's non-committal reply to Washington. This seems to evidence Germany's intention to dis-President Wilson's contentions are absolutely justified, and all Ameri-cans stand behind him. JAMES WITHYCOMBE.

Governor of Oregon Condemned By Whole World. The German reply to the Amercan note might have been more definite. Absolute good faith in diplomacy during such a war is not always quite to be expected. There ought to be but one opin-ion concerning the use of sub-marines for attacking unarmed ships carrying noncombatants, women and children. The de-mands of humanity must be heeded, and those guilty of such will-ful warfare, regardless of conse-quences, will be condemned by the whole civilized world.

W. C. McDONALD, Governor of New Mexico.

A Friendly Attitude.

Although the German note does not give a direct reply to the American demand for cessation of the submarine warfare upon mer-chant ships, it does show a friend-ly attitude toward this nation, such as to give hope that further deliberation between the two na-tions may bring about an under-standing honorable to both. We trust President Wilson to main-tain American honor without the hardships and the sacrifice of war. M. ALEXANDER Governor of Idaho.

Unresponsive, Says Lodge.

The German note does not seem to satisfy or to meet in any way the rightful demand formulated in the President's note of May 15. It is the duty of the President, however, to make reply, and to take such action as he shall deem proper. Until he has done so I think it wiser, as a member of the Senate, not to enter upon any discussion of the details or allegations of the note of the Geran government. H. C. LODGE, Senator from Massachusetts. rightful demand formulated in the Trusts In the President. Without a complete knowledge of the diplomatic negotiations between our country and Germany, I feel that it would be indelicate as well as imit would be indelicate as well as improper for me, occupying the position I do, to express an opinion upon the subject of Germany's note to the President. GEORGE E. CHAMBERLAIN,

Senator from Illinois.

Sherman Keeps Silence. Germany's reply joins issue on the President's criticism of the use of submarines. As in the Lusitania case, I shalf preserve silence until the President decides on the course to pursue. L. Y. SHERMAN, Investigation Needed.

I do not see how we can avoid the request for an investigation. But as the Berlin government has not seen fit either to express its views on the real issue, presented by the President, or to indicate what its future course will be, we what its future course will be, we are as far from a settlement of the difficulty as ever. However, I believe the two governments will reach an agreement on this question.

Suspend Diplomatic Relations. The failure of Germany to reply frankly and definitely to the note of the President is exceedingly disappointing, and the promise of furspronting, and the promise of fur-ther investigation gives little as-surance of a speedy settlement of difficulties. It is to be hoped that the President will stand firmly by his former communication and in-sist on her immediate and satis-factory really and action falling factory reply, and, action falling this, diplomatic relations should be Impossible to Recede. The German note indicates that a speedy and satisfactory settle-ment of the Cushing and Gulflight ment of the Cushing and Guiffight cases will soon be made. With reference to these ships the note is all that could be desired. The note is not final as to the Lusitania. While the position taken by the German government is a distinct disappointment, its final decision may be satisfactory. It is not possible, however, for us to recede from the position taken in our note. It is to be hoped that the final decision of the German government. cision of the German government will be satisfactory.

Invitation for Adjustment. Germany's note is not final. Its apparent evasion is an invitation to reach an adjustment by diplomacy, which covers questions of methods of warfare of both Germany and England.

Gardner For War.

So far as I can see, Germany has called our hand. We have got to make good or back down. If we take a strong stand in dealing with weak nations and weak stands in dealing with strong nations, we shall earn the world's contempt and our own as well. President Wilson cannot change his course now; it is too late. If Germany will not must call Congress gether and recommend a declaration of war. Merely to break off diplomatic relations would be a pitiable farce.
